DENVER AUTOISTS IN THE CITY

Marion Air Cooled Car Arrives from Colorado City Yesterday as Pioneer for Three More Parties.

Messrs. Jackson and Smythe arrived yesterday from Denver in their Marion air-cooled car, the first air-cooled automobile to ever reach this city on a transcontinental trip. They will continue their trip to Los Angeles today.

The gentlemen stated that they had experienced little road trouble on the way down, due to the fact that much of the muddy road had been frozen solid, and consequently did not delay them. They also said that there were three more parties in Denver who would be here within a week, as they were only awaiting a telegraphic report on the roads before taking their departure for Albuquerque.

Drum to Return.

Having completed the road mapping for which he came to Albuquerque in an overland auto trip, Harry Drum, motor editor of the Chicago Record-Herald will return to Chicago soon. He will ship his car Monday, and will follow it back by rail, as he does not care to return overland in the cold weather.

Leave for Santa Fe.

M. L. Durr, special agent for the secretary of the interior, and A. G. Pollock, special agent for the commissioner of Indian affairs, left this morning in an auto for Santa Fe.

ALBUQUERQUE MAN GETS VALUABLE PATENT

Alderman John Lee Clarke Inventor of New Wedge Principle: Offered Big Sum for Interest: It Will Be a Money Maker.

Another invention which reflects the genius of an Albuquerque man is received in the granting of a patent to John Lee Clarke upon a device which bids fair to become known and used throughout the nation when its usefulness becomes known. The invention is an "attaching wedge," to be used on all kinds of tools such as axes and hammer handles, adzes, etc. It keeps the head from slipping off, and when once set in the head of an instrument holds it there forever. When the Clarke patent attaching wedge is set in the head of an axe the only way to get it off is to saw the handle off, and drive the stub through from the under side.

A basic patent has been granted the inventor on the principle of resiliency embodied in the wedge and Mr. Clarke has already been offered $3500 for a half interest in the patent rights. He refused the offer, and will exploit the article by a mail campaign, creating a demand on the part of the consumer which will have to be recognized by dealers in the manner that a number of successfully advertised articles have in the past few years. That the project will be a success cannot be doubted by anyone who has seen one of the manufactured articles, and who is acquainted with the energy and business ability of the Albuquerque man who originated it.

The wedges can be sold for as little as ten cents apiece at a good profit. They are readily constructed of steel, in two parts which are riveted together, with teeth pointing backward, to engage the wood in such a manner that slipping out is impossible. When the wood shrinks, the spring in the metal takes up the difference, keeping the handle ever tight and secure.

The way in which our alderman happened to work out the device is of interest. He has the commendable habit of splitting wood in the back yard, and while engaged in this pastime, he observed—like Newton and the apple—that the handle invariably comes off a hatchet or an axe, and especially in this dry climate, no amount of ordinary wedging can stop it. He worked out the ingenious wedge for his own amusement, or necessity, and while he was perfecting it he became aware that he had in his hands a valuable invention, which only needed the protection of the government to make it yield results. This he has secured, and the campaign will begin. Who will receive the contract for turning out the wedges, is as yet undecided. They can be made in any size.

Lama back may come from overwork, cold settled in the muscles of the back or from disease. In the two former cases the right remedy is BAL-LARD'S SNOW LINIMENT. It should be rubbed in thoroughly over the affected part, the relief will be prompt and satisfactory. Price 25c, 50c and $1.00 per bottle. Sold by All Druggists.

"The remains of that mastodon," said the scientist in the museum, "were found buried in an iceberg." "It'm," responded the man from Chicago, "that cold storage idea isn't so new after all."—Washington Star.

VARSITY SELECTS CARLYSLE AS CAPTAIN

Hugh A. Carlyle was last night elected captain of the 1912 University of New Mexico football team. Carlyle's election followed a reception to Coach H. F. Hutchinson at the fraternity houses on the hill.

The newly elected captain played left end for the Varsity this year, and made a great name for himself by his aggressiveness and reliability. His selection as captain is sure to mark one of the most successful years the Varsity has had. Carlyle is only a freshman this year, and has three more years before him in which to gain football experience and to learn new stunts.

Coach Hutchinson was presented with a handsome Navaho blanket by the team, as a token of the appreciation for his good work, and he made a short address in acceptance.

Kata, music, a general illumination, punctuated with short addresses from the coach, from the professors, Captain Carlyle and Captain Hamilton, whom he succeeded, whittled away the hours until quite late, when the party broke up. During the evening, hours were spent at both the Alpha Alpha Alpha and Sigma Tau houses.

Included in the list of guests were the team, City Engineer J. E. Gladling, Professors Cowell, Clark, Pynch, Stephen and Weems, F. V. Latham, I. H. S. Huggell and H. F. Hutchinson.

FEDERAL CONTROL

and land values have increased $165,500,000.

LEAKE URGES U. S. TO RECLAIM SWAMPS

Forcefully declaring that the adoption by the federal government of a reclamation-by-drainage policy would change 75,000,000 acres of now unused wet lands into $7,000,000,000 worth of enormously fertile and highly productive farm lands, reduce the cost of living to every family in the United States, and almost double the agricultural commerce of two countries, Hon. Hunter C. Leake of New Orleans, in an address today urged the National Irrigation congress to ask the federal government to adopt a drainage policy that in its scope will ignore state lines and the barrier heretofore imposed by state's rights.

"The purchase of the Louisiana territory," said Mr. Leake, "was the best stroke of diplomacy in the history of the United States. The drainage of the 75,000,000 acres of enormously fertile low lands in the country will inevitably prove the greatest, the best and the most profitable business stroke ever credited to the United States. Cost of reclamation should not average more than $10 an acre. Available to the plow, these drained acres will be worth, at low valuation, $100 each. Here alone is a profit of 1,000 per cent.

"This 1,000 per cent is only the initial and smaller profit to accrue. There is no means by which the broad ramifications of such a developed asset may be traced to finally, or the benefits to be derived from an augmented food supply, an augmented commerce and an augmented national wealth may be calculated.

"There is no other project on earth that offers such a sure and such a splendid cash profit on capital invested, or such a sure and permanent means of checking the advancing cost of food, the cause of which is a relative increase in demand over production.

"Some years ago two-thirds of the country's population engaged in agricultural pursuits. Today only one-third of the country's population is so engaged. Yet agriculture, the history of which is the history of man in his most primitive and most enduring form, is just as honorable a calling as when Cincinnatus was twice called from the plow to the highest offices in the state."

Describing the effect on the farmer of the telephone, the railroad and other modern inventions, Mr. Leake

Old People Everywhere Say

Pe-ru-na is Good for Coughs, Colds and Catarrhal Diseases.

Pe-ru-na Relieves Chronic Case.
Mrs. John O. Atkinson, 1354 N. Emporia Ave., Wichita, Kas., writes of her wife's case: "My wife had been suffering from a complication of diseases for the past twenty-five years. Her cough had baffled the skill of some of the most noted physicians. One of her worst troubles was chronic constipation of several years' standing."

"I wrote to you about her case. You prescribed a course of Pe-ru-na and, within a week, she was completely cured her. She firmly believes that she would have been dead only for Pe-ru-na's help."

Suffered Forty-five Years.
Mr. J. R. Prince, R. R. 1, Tuckahoe, N. Y., writes: "I am not very well satisfied with the picture that I am sending you, but when the reader looks at this picture it is only too plain to realize that the original suffered for forty-five years, the best of his life, until your kind advice and prescription cured him. He would know from whence the wrinkles came. Next month I shall be sixty-five years old."

Nervous Prostration.
Mrs. Martha Avery, 28 Graham St., Leominster, Mass., writes: "Four years ago I had nervous prostration. I employed several doctors. One would say I had catarrh of the stomach and bowels, another nervousness, and another enlargement of the liver. My stomach was in a bad shape. There was nothing which seemed to do me much good."

Puzzled Doctors.
One would say I had catarrh of the stomach and bowels, another nervousness, and another enlargement of the liver. My stomach was in a bad shape. There was nothing which seemed to do me much good."

Feels Ten Years Younger.
Mr. Henry Merz, 1624 Upper MI. Vernon Road, Evansville, Ind., writes: "When I first wrote to you I had bronchial trouble for four years, and had tried several doctors, but they could do me no good. I had pain and rattling in the chest, cough, expectoration, especially at night."

"I took Pe-ru-na, and can now say that I am entirely well. I feel ten years younger since using Pe-ru-na. I recommend Pe-ru-na to all my friends, for I was in bad condition."

"I am an old soldier and am seventy-seven years old."

Our are fast growing rich. One farmer—A. V. Smith, who hails from Marshall, Mich., has cleared $100,000 in four years from the products of his reclaimed farm near Lockport, La. He is merely a type.

"Louisiana is reclaiming her wet lands without federal aid, not because federal aid is not desired, but because it has not been available. The state has authorized the creation of drainage districts and the sale of drainage bonds, against which an annual acreage tax on the improved land is collected and applied by the state treasurer.

"Louisiana does not ask the federal government to reclaim her low lands, but does ask that the federal government supply outfalls for the drainage of the states northward which will not prove inadequate when the flow from Louisiana's drainage pumps shall reach maximum volume as the area brought under drainage increases.

"The federal government has watered the arid lands of the west, has cleaned up Havana, and has improved the health of Central American ports in the interest of citizens of the United States. It has also wisely invaded state's rights and established a federal medical inspection at the port.

"There was logic, common sense and practical economy behind these acts.

"There is even more logic, more common sense and greater practical economy behind the request you will make of the federal congress to render direct and expansive aid in draining our 75,000,000 acres of fertile low lands."

"I desire to suggest that when you make that request you ask the government to ignore state lines, to forget the ancient and oft-times abused principle of the state's rights—that you urge the government to adopt a broad policy that will enable and instruct its officials to aid and assist in freeing the low lands of excess moisture wherever such lands lie. Reclamation of these lands does not present one-tenth the difficulty presented by the irrigation projects in the west."
